A special note from David Jannetti regarding their DNF:

Jibber 'rocked and rolled' last night. The crew was in 'stitches'. Unfortunately the translation is that we hit an uncharted rock or bus in 13.1' of depth at 7 kts and stopped dead. Then we rolled off and one of our crew headed off to Peconic Bay Medical Center for stitches - 6 to be precise. Unfortunately we're out of Sprit Fest and an undetermined number of future Wednesdays as Jibber Jabber visits Dr. Fiberglass.

All's well that ends well. Everyone will survive and now has more character. Viva Wednesday nights!

A special note of thanks to Chris Dowling, Gossip, Instant Karma and others for expressing their concern for our welfare.

David said that they run GPS tracking every race and can pinpoint the rock. He will let us know where "Jibber Rock" (or is "Jabber Rock" better?) is in a future email.
